TEACHER TRAINING SESSIONS

Multi-Sensory Structured Language (MSSL) Teaching Strategies for the Classroom

This course is primarily intended for elementary special education or general education teachers with some prior knowledge of structured language teaching.

At the end of the course, participants will:

- Understand how to choose assessment tools for diagnostic and formative assessment
- Understand how to interpret assessment results to plan instruction
- Know how to group students for instruction
- Know how to select and use a scope and sequence for instruction
- Understand how to develop a variety of lesson plans for different stages of development
- Know how to create a cycle of MSSL activities
- Understand how to engage other students in independent activities while working with a small group
- Understand how to integrate MSSL instruction into the special education classroom and /or a guided reading framework in the primary classroom

In addition, participants will:

- Receive a list of resources, both in print and online
- Be provided with ongoing online support

The principles of instruction and content of a multi sensory structured language program are essential for effective teaching methodologies.

The International Dyslexia Association (IDA) actively promotes effective teaching approaches and related clinical educational intervention strategies.

A required reading list will be provided prior to the commencement of the course.
Please see website for course outline and reading list as well as recommended textbook.

PREREQUISITE: Some prior knowledge of the history and structure of the English language will be assumed .*
